ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Dr. Raghavendra Prasad is a medical doctor, a geriatrician by specialty. He was born in Santanutala Padu village in Prakasam District, Andhra Pradesh, India in 1945. He was seventh in a family of 11 children. His father was a renowned teacher of his times and was his spiritual mentor and first preceptor.

He migrated to USA in 1974. He lived in the sates of Iowa, Maine, Florida, California and Texas. He now lives in Dallas, Texas. He served in U. S. Navy for 6 years, 24 years in private medical practice and 8 years in academic medicine.

He was the past President of Telugu Association of North America (TANA) during 1985-87; Convener of the 5th TANA Convention in Los Angeles in 1985, Founding Chairman of Federation of Indian Associations (FIA) in Southern California 1982-84 and recipient of TANA Community Service Award in 1991.

He was in Rama Krishna Mission, Chinmaya Mission and now he is in Sri Sathya Sai Organization. He led several Medical camps in Puttaparthy and in Texas as Medical Director. He was guest speaker on Sanathana Dharma and Indian culture at spiritual retreats and universities.

He is an author of several books: "Kavitha Kalyani" (Telugu poems), "Hinduism A Primer" (English), "Hindu Dharmam-Pravesika" (Telugu), Prema Vahini and Pravasa Bharathi, Raghavendra Yoga Ekadasi, Yoga Sutras.

He is happily married to Kalyani since 1969 blessed with 3 children 7 grand children. He conducted several Marriage enhancement education seminars in USA and in India. He desires to have these seminars twice a year in every major city of India in near future.